

Summer Sweat: A Hot Body Can Be Murder

From the casual observers point of view, sexy Summer Davis has it all. The forty-year-old retired fitness model is gorgeous. Was recently elected to her first term as a city council member in a landslide victory unseating the male establishment incumbent. Is married to a wealthy businessman, therefore money is no object. And is passionately involved in a variety of charities, including the Second Chance homeless shelter and fostering bully breed dogs for the local kill shelter. To know Summer is to love her. Or not. One morning she finds a severed finger in her driveway. Anonymous letters demanding she Resign now or else! appear in her mailbox every Monday. Her husband is jealous of the time she spends on charity projects and is threatening divorce. Someone driving a black Chrysler 300 is stalking her. Rayne, her psychic twin brother, receives visions indicating Summers lifes in jeopardy. And a serial killer who torturously spans women, skins them alive, then cures their flesh for fashioning into leather jewelry is on the prowl for his next victim Summer! Clues stack up. Suspicions rise. The sadistic murderer is likely someone Summer knows. Could he be her best friends husband? A current or former city council member? The womanizing jerk at the gym? The overly protective police officer? Maybe even her husband? Will Summer discover the killers identity in time to avoid the horrors of his spanking bench and an agonizing death? Or will she become his most prized trophy yet?
