

Past Due

Dying is the easiest part . . . a rendering of accounts Rick Conwright, fired from his job as an investigative journalist for stepping on too many influential toes, has started over as a private investigator. Rick did not know his new brother-in-law, Vince Langlow, all that well. But when the prominent Portland business leader suddenly vanished, Ricks sister implored him to find her husband. Rick digs into Vinces murky past and discovers a web of persons who had been involved in a long-discontinued mining operation. But these former associates of the missing man all have reasons for wanting the past to remain buried. Ricks search takes him to the British Columbia wilderness, through the Portland underworld, puts him up against sophisticated con artists, and leads him to a foundry in Californias Mother Lode country. His race against time fills in a picture of greed, obsession, and vengeance. The hunted becomes the hunter and Rick will have to place his own life on the line to save Vince.
