

Lost Graves

A Southern Gothic novel of terror based upon events that occurred within a historic country home. While I am a believer in good and evil, my religious convictions prevent me from interpreting the events that transpired in the house that was moved from Dahlonga Street to Mt. Ebal. It is important for these facts to remain isolated from my own beliefs. What happened or why it did is left to the readers interpretation. I have found from my own experience that a person should not look too deeply into dark rooms or stare at antique mirrors. My hand writes this story as one whose fingers are placed upon a Ouija board. I know not what direction or answers it will provide.
